COURSE DESCRIPTION

How do we 'do things with words'? Do languages have a socially charged life? What is the relationship between language and culture? Do languages shape thought and create realities? How do we become the competent speakers of our speech communities? How do we develop language and its penumbral sign systems in social life? How do we define ourselves and others as social beings through language use? Do languages create and maintain social differences, such as gender and racial boundaries? What is the politics of language standardization? Who benefits from the process of language standardization? How do languages shape and influence global issues and trends?

This class introduces and explores the nature and structure of the 'uniquely' human achievement known as 'language' and its foundational relationship with culture through bringing anthropological approaches to the study of language, culture, and society. We will survey the social and cultural contexts of language throughout the world and examine the way language reflects the ways of life and beliefs of its speakers. In so doing, we examine the formal properties of language (i.e., morphology, syntax, semantics, and phonology), the psycho-social nature of language (acquisition and processing), and the social nature of language. It is in the intersection of these three aspects that linguistic anthropologists are most interested in. For example, how do formal linguistic properties interact with and intersect with beliefs about "standard" or 'proper' English? How are these beliefs then played out in debates about Ebonics? It is only by understanding these more formal features of language structure that we can speak to issues concerning discourse, linguistic relativity, language and identity, language and power, and language ideology. Topics include: nature of language, origins of language, formal properties of language, cultural rules of communication, how languages vary through time, across space, and among social groups, how languages change, language and thought, language and inequality, language and gender, language and race, multilingualism, language and globalization, language death and revitalization, the politics of language standardization, and some functions of multilingualism and code-switching.

COURSE OBJECTIVES AND STUDENT LEARNING OUTCOMES

Upon completion of this course, the students will be able to understand and explain:

- The relationship between language and culture
- How language both reflects and creates thought, culture, and power relations
- How language produces social realities and how to study language as social action and phenomena
- How to do things words, i.e. create and perform identities, mark our membership in a speech community and in communities of practice, create social realities, create and maintain power relations
- The role language plays in processes like socialization, globalization, and domination
- How we define ourselves and others as social beings through language use?
- How languages create and maintain social differences, gender and racial boundaries?
- What the politics of language standardization and the politics of bilingualism, and multilingual nations are
- The diversity and complexity of languages worldwide
- Language death and revitalization
- The politics of bilingualism

GLOBAL LEARNING OUTCOMES:

Upon completion of this course, the students will:

- increase their awareness of the way languages create and maintain social realities, social boundaries, and power relations by contextualizing them through the interconnectedness of local, global, international, and intercultural issues, trends and systems (Global Awareness)
- develop the ability to see and analyze the relationship between language, culture, and society in addition to language, power, and inequality from multiple perspectives that reflect the interconnectedness of local and global issues and trends (Global Perspective)
- be prepared to engage in local to global inter-cultural problem solving by using their gained knowledge and perspective on language and culture and how languages create social realities and power relations (Global Engagement)

* This is a discipline-specific global learning-designated course that counts toward your global learning graduation requirement.

CANVAS: Additional Readings, Videos, Course Slides, Assignment Guidelines will be posted on CANVAS. Log in via canvas.fiu.edu and check that you can access the course website. If you encounter any technical problems, then call UTS at 305.348.2284 or go to Green Library Rm. 150.

COURSE FORMAT:

This class will operate as an interactive lecture, which means that I will do some lecturing, but we will use most of the class time to do the harder work of assimilating that knowledge, perhaps through problem-solving, discussion, or debates. In this vein, this course utilizes Team-Based Learning (TBL). You will be assigned to a team at the beginning of the semester. Teams are different than groups. I will explain the difference during the first week of the semester. You will be expected to get prepared for classes by completing the work outside of class and coming to class to apply that knowledge through team activities, projects, and debates. Thus, regular attendance, student preparedness, and meaningful participation are expected of each student. Coming prepared to participate in class discussions and applying your knowledge from assigned work to do problem-solving will allow all of you to better work through and conceptualize difficult concepts and theories, and to apply these theories to your own experiences and learn from each other. While doing assigned work (readings, videos, etc.) have a critical and reflective perspective. Weekly Quizzes and reflections in addition to short research projects will guide you in getting prepared for each class. Team assignments and debates will then help you to further your understanding and collaboratively put your knowledge into practice.

COURSE REQUIREMENTS:

1. Team Presentation and Participation 10%
2. CANVAS Quizzes & Reflections 20%
3. In-class Team Assignments 15%
4. Short Research Projects (2x15%) 30%
5. Final Exam 25%

TOTAL 100%

GRADING SYSTEM: To help you succeed in the class, grades are always available to you online through CANVAS grade center. You do not need to ask the professor to login to CANVAS.

The cut-off points (as a percentage) for all work will be:
93 A, 90 A-, 87 B+, 83 B, 80 B-, 77 C+, 73 C, 70 C-, 67 D+, 63 D, 60 D-

1. IN-CLASS TEAM PRESENTATION and PARTICIPATION GRADE (10% OF GRADE)
This class will operate as an interactive class. Thus, active participation in team and class discussions are crucial. You will earn your team presentation and participation grade through regular attendance, active participation in your team and active participation in class discussions. Arriving late, missing more than one class, and not contributing to team and in-class discussions will negatively affect your presentation-participation grade.

2. CANVAS QUIZZES AND REFLECTIONS (20%)
These are weekly quizzes and reflections on assigned readings and videos. Each quiz will include 8-15 multiple choice and 2-3 short answer reflections questions on assigned readings and videos. Make sure you first complete the assigned work for the week and then take the quiz on CANVAS. During week 2 you will be given multiple attempts to get familiarize with the quiz structure. Starting from week 3, you will be only allowed to take each quiz once. These weekly quizzes are online (CANVAS), and timed. Your lowest grade will be dropped. No make-up allowed!

3. IN-CLASS TEAM ASSIGNMENTS (15% OF GRADE)
The weekly class sessions are a key source of learning for the course. During each class, we will have multiple team activities, projects, and debates. I will only ask you as a team to write and submit one of them for grades. However, your final team grade will be calculated individually. Not all team members will be assigned the same team grade. Your individual team grades will be based on the points you earned from your submitted team work, your attendance, your performance and active participation in your team. Your team members will evaluate your team attendance and performance at the end of the semester. I will make final team grade adjustments at the end of the semester based on these evaluations and your attendance and performance.

4. SHORT RESEARCH PROJECTS (2 @ 15%, 30% TOTAL)
These research projects (4-5 page, double-spaced) will ask you to choose a topic (i.e., language socialization, language and gender, language and power, etc.) covered in the course readings and discussions thus far and analyze the topic by applying it to a local or a global issue, trend, or an event (i.e., the politics of language standardization, racial language use in media, the influence of sexist language on sexual violence, etc.). You need to analyze the influence of language and culture from a local, national, and global perspectives. Check CANVAS for further detailed guidelines.

5. FINAL EXAM (25% OF GRADE)
Final exam will be cumulative. It will be multiple choice, short answer, and essay. It will cover materials from text, additional readings, lectures, discussions and films. If you miss class, it is your responsibility to ask fellow students for notes. You can also go to CANVAS to find lecture notes. Some, but not all, films are available through library.

GENERAL CLASS POLICIES

1. Attendance: You may have one absence and you may be tardy once per semester without penalty. Any absence or tardy beyond one will result in you being marked down by two points in the overall class. Any absence or tardy beyond two will result in you being marked down by four to five points in the overall class. If you need to miss a class due to illness (medical doctor's note), religious observances or team participation (official paper work) you must notify me before class. I will accommodate legitimate, verifiable cases of illness and emergencies in addition to religious holy days (two-weeks in advance notice).

MISSING MORE THAN ONE CLASS WITHOUT AN OFFICIAL EXCUSE WILL BRING YOUR OVERALL GRADE DOWN 2 POINTS PER CLASS MISSED.

2. Conduct in the Classroom: Students are expected to treat the professor and other students with dignity and respect, especially in cases where a diversity of opinion arises. If students disrupt the learning process or act in a disrespectful and/or threatening behavior toward the professor or other students in class, they will be asked to leave the class. However, if the same student continues engaging in disruptive behavior, they will be subjected to disciplinary action, including removal from the course.

3. Electronics Policy: Note that use of cell phones, computers, or any other devices during class other than team assignments will result in student being marked absent and receiving the two to five-point grade penalty. You will first be given a yellow card as a warning. If you continue, then you will be given a red card which shows that you are marked as absent.

4. Joining a Team: Each team will have 4 students in it. During week 1 and 2, I will explain how to form a team and enroll in your team on CANVAS. During Week 1, you will be working in a temporary team. You are required to join your team on CANVAS to receive grades for your team assignments. At the end of the semester, you will evaluate your team member's individual performances.

5. Tardiness: Assignments received after the deadline will lose 1/2 or 1 grade; one week and over 1 full grade or more. Only 2 late work accepted.

6. Plagiarism/Academic Honesty: As an FIU student, you are always expected to abide by the university’s policies particularly those governing academic honesty and plagiarism as they appear in the FIU Student Handbook. If you are not familiar with how to avoid plagiarism, you will receive some instruction and additional guidelines in this course. In sum, should anything you/your team produces cite any data, research or information that you have not generated and which is not general knowledge then you must cite it appropriately following one of the disciplinary conventions of the academic disciplines represented by the faculty teaching this course. More information about citation formatting will be given to you via Blackboard. Please become completely familiar with bibliographic styles and citation conventions. If you do not cite others’ work adequately you can be accused of plagiarism and FIU takes these accusations very seriously. Several of your written assignments will be submitted using Turnitin.com to check your work for plagiarism. Finally, I reserve the right to alter the syllabus as needed. You will be notified of any changes.

7. Academic Conduct: Florida International University is a community dedicated to generating and imparting knowledge through excellent teaching and research, the rigorous and respectful exchange of ideas, and community service. All students should respect the right of others to have an equitable opportunity to learn and to honestly demonstrate the quality of their learning. Therefore, all students are expected to adhere to a standard of academic conduct, which demonstrates respect for themselves, their fellow students, and the educational mission of the University. All students are deemed by the University to understand that if they are found responsible for academic misconduct, they will be subject to the Academic Misconduct procedures and sanctions, as outlined in the Student Handbook.

Special Needs Students: Please notify the faculty prior to or immediately upon commencement of this course about your accommodation needs as in accordance with FIU policy. You will be accommodated accordingly.

This syllabus is subject to change at the discretion of the faculty. Students will be notified of such changes ahead of time via email or through CANVAS.
